Dear Commissioner Lloyd,

Attached, please find a letter which outlines the Douglas Indian Association's concerns regarding Redfern Company's proposed barge access alternative on the Taku River. The Taku River is the heart of our homeland and we have many concerns regarding the impacts of this proposal on fish and wildlife. The Douglas Indian Association is a federally recognized tribe and we have a government-to-government relationship with the United States and its agencies. We hope you will take the time to read our letter and that you will ensure that DNR's permitting process respects our concerns and our information requests. Thank you for your time in advance.

As per news articles published in the last few days in the ADN, leading officers in the Veco Corporation have been interfering with many of our Legislators and using them to manipulate the profits obtainable from our resources in favor of Veco and other Oil giants. The whole dirty mess is now in open view. Governor Palin, you are the Governor of this state. Please take the following action.

1. Cancel the Veco Corporation's business license.
2. Watch for and do not allow the officers of the Veco corporation to reconstitute themselves under a new business name.
3. Cancel the Anchorage Times business license. They dance the Veco Waltz.
4. Cancel Oil and Gas lease agreements with Exxon.
5. Confiscate all Exxon property here in Alaska in payment for the Valdez oil spill unpaid fine.
6. Do not allow Exxon to participate in any way in the Gas pipeline deal.
7. Do not allow BP to claim tax relief on the oil pipeline repairs. It should have maintained the line in good condition.
8. Our laws did not protect us from BP's pipeline spill, the Valdez oil spill or from Exxon's refusal to pay the oil spill fine.

Dare we now risk the Pebble project? Your call or let Alaskans be the judge.

Here is an email I received from Kip re: Aviation Advisory.

The four seats being considered are:

Jim Dodson, rep for City and Borough of FBX

Tom George, AK Airman's Assoc Rep (applying for seat vacated by Felix Maguire, he's endorsed by Kip, Paul Landis, and has stopped by the office a few times)

Bob Jacobsen, Regional Air Carrier (we've discussed re-appt, he had an event last fall at Wings)

Jack Barber, Public Member (appt last month)

I'm curious if we are going to re-appoint Jim Dodson, appoint Tom George, and designate

Paul Landis as chair? These terms expired in March.

Thanks,

Ivy

As a replacement for Wien, I would highly recommend Tom George, Aircraft Owners and Pilots Assoc. representative for Alaska.

He has attended virtually every meeting since the board's creation, and has contributed more than most members. Because of big changes that are imminent in federal rules and fees regarding general aviation (which will have huge impact on Alaska), Tom's service on the board would be very important.

His telephone is 455-9000 in Fairbanks.

I have heard that Paul Landis is a name being considered for chair. He would execute those duties very well.

Should another opening occur, I would be happy to serve on this Board.

As a side note, it would be very politic for the Governor drop in at the next Board meeting to thank Wien for his service. Probably need to suggest to Torgerson that the next meeting be held in Fairbanks. He was the prime mover behind the Board's creation.

Subject: Cabinet questions re APOC electronic filing

Governor:
In the last Cabinet meeting I promised I would get back to you on why we need $350,000 for the electronic filing of disclosure statements. You said you had not a problem filing your reports during your last campaign and wondered exactly why we need the additional funds and what cost savings might be achieved if APOC no longer has to key in information on these reports.

In 2003, APOC requested funding to only handle the Campaign Disclosure information electronically. When I was appointed and reviewing APOC's request for $350,000 of additional money for this year, I asked for a status update on the previous appropriation. Basically, there's little to show for it. We will aggressively manage this project if the funding is maintained in the budget. It needs to be done, I know you want it done so that the public can see who contributes to whom and "follow the money."

The current system will not survive another election year, and it's an imperfect system that only addresses one piece of the reporting requirements. If the system is not updated, APOC will revert to a paper-only agency. Information currently available to users on the APOC WebPages would not be updated. This would not be in keeping with your philosophy of open government.

In terms of savings, Campaign Disclosure Statements range from one page (such as a registration statement, or an exemption statement) to 500 pages (such as a report by a gubernatorial candidate.) In many cases the quality of the handwriting is very poor, so each page takes longer to enter. In an election year, Brooke Miles, APOC Executive Director, estimates that 65% of the personal services resources of APOC ($660.4 FY 07) are expended in the data entry process.

Of course, there is other work APOC does, which is unrelated to the automation of these reports including investigating complaints and providing training.

As you are likely aware, HB 109 has been amended to require APOC to scan in handwritten information so that the public sees it timely. (Sec. 9. AS 15.13.040 is amended by adding a new subsection to read:
(p) Information required by this chapter that is submitted to the commission on paper and not electronically shall be electronically scanned and published on the Internet by the commission, in a format accessible to the general public, within two working days after the commission receives the information.

I hope this information answers your questions and I can provide additional backup if you would like it.

Frustrated agriculture boss quits

LARRY DEVILBISS: Lack of direction on key projects prompts resignation, he says.

By S.J. KOMARNITSKY
Anchorage Daily News

Published: May 10, 2007
Last Modified: May 10, 2007 at 04:17 AM

WASILLA -- Larry DeVilbiss, director of the state Division of Agriculture, is resigning after a little more than two years on the job.

DeVilbiss said he was frustrated with Gov. Sarah Palin's administration's lack of direction on key agriculture topics such as the state's ailing dairy industry and a state-run meat plant.

He also said he knew he was likely to be replaced soon and wanted to leave now to take care of his own farming projects. DeVilbiss owns a Palmer-area farm where he raises beef and carrots.

"It was becoming obvious that if the governor intended to confirm me, she would have done it," he said. "I've got to put up hay and make a living."

His last day on the job is May 31, he said.

DeVilbiss, a former Matanuska-Susitna Borough assemblyman who also serves on the borough School Board and on the Matanuska Electric Association board of directors, was appointed agriculture director in February 2005 by then-Gov. Frank Murkowski.

As head of the agency charged with oversight of agriculture in Alaska, he earns $85,700 annually to oversee a staff of about 50, an annual budget of about $7 million and myriad programs from promotion of the Alaska Grown logo to a state seed-potato program.

During his administration, he was criticized by some farmers for his efforts to privatize the state-owned Mt. McKinley Meat and Sausage Plant and his support of a state lawsuit against a farming group over the use of the Alaska Grown logo.

Members of the Mat-Su chapter of the Alaska Farm Bureau -- the defendant in the state's lawsuit -- were particularly critical, labeling him anti-farmer.

DeVilbiss said he was trying to do what he believed was best for the industry, which included privatization.

While he was unable to resolve many outstanding issues in his two years in office, DeVilbiss said he thought he at least moved the discussion forward on topics like privatizing the meat plant and, more recently, possibly privatizing the state-owned Matanuska Maid dairy.

ACHIEVEMENTS CITED

He said he considers among his accomplishments expansion of the state's export of seed potatoes and apparently convincing state officials to put $1 million into this year's general fund budget for the agriculture division.

Those funds had previously been removed from the state loan fund for farmers.

While critical of the Palin administration, DeVilbiss noted that the Natural Resources Department, which oversees the division, experienced extensive turnover in his two years, including three changes of director. He also noted that agriculture, which generates only about $50 million a year in revenue, takes a back seat, perhaps legitimately, to issues involving other industries like oil and gas that bring in billions.

But, he said, he believes the state needs to support a supply of locally grown food.

"Someday the oil is going to run out," he said.

Still, he noted that current deputy commissioner Dick LeFebvre has been more involved in agriculture issues, which he found encouraging.

NO REPLACEMENT CHOSEN

State Department of Natural Resources spokesman Dan Saddler said no replacement has been picked for DeVilbiss. He said names will have to be forwarded by the state Board of Agriculture and Conservation.

In an interview late last month, LeFebvre acknowledged the administration was under pressure to replace DeVilbiss but said he didn't expect a decision until after the legislative session ended.

Saddler said Wednesday that he did not know about those discussions.

As far as DeVilbiss' complaints about a lack of direction, Saddler said the director was entitled to his opinion.

"I'm sure he's got his view on that and there's certainly a lot going on in the department," he said.

Subject: FW: Governor Sarah Palin, May 19 invitation to Grand Opening

I've attached a note from our friend at Fred Meyer. This is in response to my phone call that you needed to be in Anch/Petersburg and couldn't attend his event. Did he ask permission from you to put you in his ad?

In our grand opening add for next week we did advertise that Sarah would be at the store to join in on the cake cutting event. If plans do change we would really like to have her here.

Thank you,

NO! I told them I couldn't get the message to you and you wouldn't be back until after 3:30pm. I tried everyone's cell in Cordova and couldn't get you.
